President's Message

The year was 1975. A postage stamp sold for 10 cents and you could fill your new AMC Pacer with gas for just 57 cents a gallon. That year the Steelers defeated the Vikings in Super Bowl IX. NBC aired the first episode of Saturday Night Live. In New Mexico, Bill Gates and Paul Allen founded a new computer company called Microsoft. Woodinville had just one stop-light, which had been installed the previous year. This was also the year that a small group of likeminded area residents gathered and officially organized the Woodinville Historical Society.

This year we are "Celebrating 40 Years of Woodinville Heritage, 1975 - 2015". While the original name has changed, the Heritage Society remains focused on preserving our past for future generations. Throughout the upcoming year The Homesteader will include a variety of stories about our four decades of commitment to collections and archives. Our programs and activities will also incorporate commemorative themes intended to highlight some of our achievements.

The year 2015 marks a milestone in the Society's history and an opportunity to celebrate. The journey has brought to the community a rich collection of photographs, archives and exhibits. But the journey is just beginning. As the year unfolds, I look forward to reflecting on where we have been and take great joy in contemplating our future.

Our New Board Member: Deanna Arnold-Frady

Deanna Arnold-Frady was unanimously approved as a new board member of the Woodinville Heritage Society at its regular Jan. 8 board meeting. Her candidacy was proposed by President Rick Chatterton. She succeeds Merwin Cederblom who has served WHS since 1996. Cederblom retired in late 2014 but continues as a volunteer and museum docent.

The newest board member has lived in Woodinville for nearly 15 years. She has been an investment professional for 25 years and is the vice president for business relations with KMS Financial Services. Her past experiences in the securities industry include compliance, risk and operations management, marketing and public relations, strategic planning and business development. She currently serves as president of the Northwest Securities Management Association.

Deanna has a lifelong passion for history and genealogy instilled by her parents who have traced their own roots to the 1600s and 1700s. Her favorite time periods involve the American Revolution and the Civil War. "I have a deep respect for history and heritage, and I enjoy learning about Woodinville's past," she explained. "I am anxious to be involved with the heritage society and its commitment to historic preservation and community involvement."

Deanna and her husband, Charles Frady, have a home in the historic part of Woodinville. She is the mother of Brittany, 22, whose husband is serving with the US Marine Corps, and is the grandmother of Mackenzie. Deanna presently serves as a volunteer museum docent. She was also a parent volunteer at Woodmoor Elementary School, Northshore Junior High and Inglemoor High School, a church and hospital volunteer, and was co-leader of a Girl Scout troop.

"Do Not Come" Event a Success

At a Woodinville Heritage Society board meeting last fall, members were asked for fund-raising ideas to sustain the 2015 budget. The usual number of ideas were produced including dinners, programs and special events. Then vice president Kevin Stadler offered a unique concept: why not promote a "Do Not Come" party?

Kevin, who heard about the idea at the Alderwood Manor Heritage Association where he also belongs, explained, "It means we don't have hours of planning, staging and hard work. And people don't have to get dressed up, go out in wintry weather and spend several hours away from home. They can sit in front of the fire, write a check and accomplish the same goal: support their local museum!"

What a novel idea, the board agreed. Shall we try it?

Formal printed invitations went out to a far-ranging list of members, supporters and Woodinville friends. With a busy holiday season ahead for people with crowded calendars, the idea of a non-event seemed appealing.

The result? The final tally produced $4,770! The checks ranged from $10 all the way to $500. And because expenses were limited to $239 for printing and postage, the museum received over $4,500 in support.

Thank you, friends, for not coming to our special "Do Not Come" event and supporting us!
